

Mythology in the ESL Classroom. Curriculum Unit 83.02.09

(1983)

TAGS:

General information
Title of the work	Mythology in the ESL Classroom. Curriculum Unit 83.02.09
Year of publication	1983
Publisher	Yale-New Haven Teachers Institute According to the publisher, "the webpage for the Curricular Resources of the Yale-New Haven Teachers Institute allows users to search for thousands of curriculum units in STEM and the humanities. These units were written by Institute Fellows in local seminars in New Haven led by Yale University faculty members between 1978, the year the Institute was founded, and 2019. These units are readily adaptable for use throughout pre-college grades. Users can browse and search for these units using keywords, our topical index, and our listings of units by year and by volume. The topical index might be especially useful to audiences of your project interested in curriculum units about mythology, Ancient Greece, and other subjects related to Antiquity. URL: https://teachersinstitute.yale.edu/curriculum/ For similar content, see also the Yale National Initiative URL: https://teachers.yale.edu/curriculum/search/start "
Original language	English
Target and Age Group	Beginning, intermediate and advanced ESL Students
Link (to resource)	Mythology in the ESL Classroom

Additional information

Contents & Purpose

This unit is designed as a handbook for teachers on incorporating myths into ESL (English as Second Language) classes. The stories are aimed to develop reading skill, writing skills, artistic skills, listening skills.

The suggested myths are:

The creation of the world and humankind, Pandora, name of the months, exploits of various Olympian gods, (the Roman names are used in this unit): Jupiter, Neptune, Pluto, Venus, Minerva, Diana, Apollo, Mars, Vulcan, Hebe, Mercury, Maia and also the Roman god Janus.

The units provides 3 sample lesson plans and teacher bibliography

Further comments

The creator states that the myths are filled with mystery and adventure and hence can provide limitless opportunities for learning and activities in ESL classes. Furthermore, through the learning of myth, the creator hopes the students develop sensitivities to the past beliefs and values of the ancient society.

The unit explores the Roman names of the months and the Roman calendar associated with each month. Hence there is a mixture of Greek and Roman lore in the activities

